Dear All,

it has been brought to my attention that on our latest March Alert, there is a fraudulent announcement about a soil fertility conference in Moscow:

<https://waset.org/soil-fertility-conference-in-august-2024-in-moscow>

A thorough revision of this event has proven to be a "predatory conference" that has nothing to do with a scientific event, and the page was probably generated by AI

( https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/World\_Academy\_of\_Science,\_Engineering\_and\_Technology#:~:text=WASET%20has%20been%20accused%20of,appears%20to%20operate%20the%20website)

As the Alert was sent as the body of the text of an e-mail, it is not possible for me to erase it, but I kindly ask you all not to consider this announcement or pay any sum or "fees" for it to those scammers.

Lastly, I would like to apologies for any inconvenience this might have caused.

Kind Regards
